

Jordan Cole

Actors Equity Association

Contact: Barry Kolker

The Carson Kolker Organization Ltd.

(212)221-1517/ barry@ckoaf.com

Personal

D.O.B.: February 22, 2007

Eyes: Brown

Hair: Brown

Height: 4 feet

Weight: 55 lbs.

National Tour:

Finding Neverland (Michael Llewelyn Davies) 2016-2017

Regional Theater:

WST Production of Mary Poppins (Bert), March 2016

WST Teen Production of Les Miserables (Gavroche), December 2015

WST Production of Beauty and the Beast (Gaston), November 2015

WST Production of Glee: The Final Episode, September 2015

Summer/School Theater:

Challenge Camp Production of Oliver (Oliver Twist), August 2016

Challenge Camp Production of Wizards of Westchester (Harry Potter), August 2015

George M. Davis School Production of Charlotte's Web (Wilbur), June 2014

George M. Davis School Production of Jack and the Beanstalk (Jack), June 2013

Workshops:

A Class Act NY (School of Rock Workshop), March 2015

White Plains Performing Arts Center (Tarzan Workshop), December 2015

Applause Musical Theater Workshop, 2014-2015

Special Skills/Hobbies

Playing piano and ukulele, writing/producing music, accents, drawing, reading, making people laugh, computer programming, baseball, legos, photography, singing/rapping along with the Hamilton soundtrack, fake crying

What people are saying about Jordan Cole and the boys of Finding Neverland:

- “...And real acting chops come from the boys who play Sylvia's sons...the opening-night quartet — Jordan Cole, Finn Faulconer, Eli Tokash and Mitchell Wray — are just super, with excellent diction and loads of charm.” (St. Louis Post-Dispatch)
- “...In addition to Krieger, the opening night cast included Finn Faulconer as George, Mitchell Wray as Jake and scene stealer Jordan Cole as bedtime resistant Michael.” (Chicago Tribune)
- “These four young actors... are superb, and prove especially beguiling when they team up as a backyard band to sing ‘We’re All Made of Stars.’” (Chicago Sun Times)
- “...Her boys are played by Jordan Cole, Finn Faulconer, Mitchell Wray and Eli Tokash. They are powerful and highly energetic young actors who appear to be having as much fun as we are.” (Around the Town Chicago)
- “The Davies Boys... were all incredible. Their chemistry as brothers was wonderful and ‘We’re All Made of Stars’ was a huge hit with the audience.” (Showbiz Chicago)
- “The boys...were amazing. Their voices were divine, energy contagious, and they were all cute as buttons.” (ChicagoNow)
- “The Llewelyn Davies children...are all real finds. They’re cute and funny without being cloying.” (Chicago Theater Beat)
- “And the children, in particular, steal this production, led by a very talented young Ben Krieger, as Peter, and include Finn Faulconer, as George, Mitchell Wray, as Jack and dear little Jordan Cole, as Michael.” (Chicago Theater Review)
- “Maybe their adorable British accents help, but the boys are wonderfully believable as they argue, play and interact.” (Rochester Review)
- “The actors playing the four Davies children on opening night... are enchanting. They are natural in their playfulness and handle all the key acting moments that come their way.” (Cleveland Jewish News)
- “...the cast members who impressed me the most were the four child actors who portrayed Sylvia’s sons. Normally, child actors annoy me. They seem to overcompensate just to act alongside their adult counterparts. They over enunciate and play their roles much too straight-laced. But in Finding Neverland, the roles played by these boys were exactly what I would expect from children. Carefree and playful, these boys stole my heart.” (Playback STL)
- “... Jordan Cole, Finn Faulconer and Mitchell Wray were...excellent.” (Broadwayworld.com)
- “Particularly memorable were the charming performances of the multi-talented quartet of young actors, who played the spirited Davies brothers.” (On the Aisle with Tom Alvarez)
- “The six young actors playing the boys... all do a fine job and often are called upon to carry much of the weight of the show in their scenes.” (Cleveland Theater Reviews)

- “The boys are engagingly bright and polite, from Krieger’s Peter and Finn Faulconer’s surprisingly mature George to Jordan Cole and Mitchell Wray, who each are out-and-out adorable as little tykes Michael and Jack...” (Orange County Register)
- “...the kids deliver lively performances, enhancing the “cute” factor of a show that squarely qualifies as family entertainment.” (LA Weekly)
- “...the boys steal the show every time they are in a scene.” (Daily Titan)